REV. DR. KINCAID WET BLANKETS THE REVIVAL.

Attacks the Advertiser and Has a Theatrical Scene with T.
McCants Stewart.

At the Union Easter Gospel Service held in Central Union church last night Rev. Dr. Kincaid arose and said that he desired to speak concerning an article that appeared in Saturday's morning paper, concerning the remarks made by a member of his church at the Communion service Friday night. Dr. Kincaid said in part: "If that article had been written concerning the pastor of Central Union church he would have pursued the same policy that he had for twenty-five years in regard to press criticism—that of absolute silence. But it was so unjust, so untrue, so discourteous, so unmanly, so unfair, so contrary to that principle that lies at the bottom of English and American life that I feel called upon to speak of it here. It was a violation of all propriety.

"I don't know who wrote the article and I don't know who inspired it and I am glad that I do not. It was a gross misrepresentation of the whole service. The remarks of the man referred to in the article were in just as good taste as those of Mr. Bowen following them and more to the point. I was sorry to see that the paper chose to treat our revival in so flippant a spirit. God knows we have a controversy with the press but let us remember that we are told to 'Love those who curse you and do good to them who persecute you.' As pastor of Central Union church I wish to give to Brother Stewart my heartiest compliments. He came into our communion at my solicitation. I have visited his house several times and have always been received with the greatest kindness and courtesy. I want to see justice done."

At the close of the remarks Mr. Stewart arose and advanced to the foot of the platform where he shook hands with Dr. Kincaid.

THE AFTERMATH.

After the meeting the Advertiser was assured that the injection of this matter into last night's services was most depressing and apologies were made for Dr. Kincaid who was said to be "most impulsive." The Kincaid-Stewart side was not without some support, however, as witness the following letter from Mr. Bowen:

Editor Advertiser: I write to correct an erroneous report, made in yesterday's Advertiser in reference to Mr. T. McCants Stewart.

1. He did not interrupt the communion service. The said service was ended. The leader (Mr. Kincaid) had introduced a subject for the immediate consideration and prayer and vote of the audience. It pertained to the continuance of revival work here, and the sending for an evangelist.

2. At this point I arose in my place and stated that I had, just before coming to the meeting, received a letter of information concerning the evangelist proposed. The leader said letters could be read later, which was done.

3. Mr. T. McCants Stewart's remarks were called forth by the close personal analysis which the leader wished each one to make, in deciding and voting on the continuance of the revival. Impeding causes should all be removed if we were to have a free course for the Holy Spirit.

I think, Mr. Editor, when you consider that the communion service was absolutely at an end and that before Mr. Stewart arose to say anything, I had myself spoken, and that his remarks were more in line with what the leader had in mind than were mine, that he is no more open to criticism than I, and that in all justice to him these facts should be given as much publicity, as your original inaccurate report, and further that your own adverse judgment should be rectified.

Yours truly,
W. A. BOWEN.

KILLED IN A CANEFIELD

Porto Rican Hacked to Pieces In a Quarrel.

The old, old story of wine and women caused a tragedy at Aiea yesterday morning. While thousands of people in the neighboring city were sending up songs of joy and praise for a Risen Lord, E. Gonsales and Frank Toro met in a canefield at Honolulu plantation and settled their differences in a fight to the death. As a result Toro lies dead, slashed with eight knife cuts and Gonsales languishes in the police station charged with his murder.

Apparently the two men had a quarrel over a girl at a Porto Rican dance Saturday night, although Gonsales denies that this was the cause of the trouble. At any rate witnesses state that there were words between the two men.

Yesterday morning between seven and eight o'clock Gonsales was going down to the stream to wash his clothes while Toro was coming up from his bath. They met in the canefield. Just what took place is not known, but Gonsales says that Toro struck him a stinging blow with a whip. What ensued was told by Gonsales in his broken English to an Advertiser reporter as follows:

"Toro, he strike me across my shoulder and back with whip. I run away. Bimby I come back. I have knife. We fight. I strike him so with knife (simulating a ferocious blow to the left breast). While we are fighting he has hold of my hair with his hand. I am thrown to ground. I cut him. He struck me with whip so I want kill him. I afraid of him. He very strong man, stronger than I. I no fight with him over wahine at hula hula Saturday night. I think he drunk then."

The dead man was found lying in the field, his throat cut from ear to ear and seven other frightful gashes on his body, mainly on his arms and back. Any one of several would have caused death, it is stated.

Gonsales was arrested by a plantation policeman and Deputy Sheriff Rawlins, who happened to be at Ewa, was notified. He at once went to the scene of the murder. A search was made for the knife with which Toro was killed, his slayer assisting in the hunt. A reward was offered, but later another Porto Rican was discovered to have hidden it. He was arrested with a friend who seemed to know about the affair. They will be detained as witnesses. The three men were brought in by Deputy Rawlins on the 1:40 p. m. train.

The knife with which the work was done was like a sailor's knife, having a blade five inches long with the end cut off square. It is as sharp as a razor.

Gonsales is a handsome man, well built, with curly black hair and mustache. He did not seem to realize the seriousness of his plight until he reached the station house, when he broke down. In the afternoon he had recovered his composure. He is about twenty-five or thirty years of age. The murdered man was twenty-five and leaves a wife.

The body of the deceased was examined yesterday and Dr. Davis is holding a post mortem examination. A coroner's jury was sworn in and viewed the remains.

The Porto Ricans at Honolulu plantation are known as an exceptionally fine and well behaved lot. Gonsales has been there only about two months and is said to have been in jail here on vagrancy and other charges previously.

MABELOKA SAID TO BE CANDIDATE FOR AUDITOR

It is said that there is a movement on foot on the part of prominent taxpayers to have the County Act tested before the date set for its going into effect, in order that its legality may be determined. It is argued that it would be needless extravagance to go ahead and instal county government that would not stand the test of the courts, as was done before. Just what shape the proposed action will take has not been determined.

In the meantime, politicians who want jobs are getting into training, and the names of candidates for various county offices so far carry a certain significance. Among others, it was said around the Capitol on Saturday that Solomon Mahelona would like to have the job of county auditor of Oahu.

EASTER DAY CELEBRATED

Beautiful Services Held
In the Honolulu
Churches.

Honolulu churches were thronged yesterday. Special Easter services were held in almost every one. Bowers of greenery, dotted with Easter lilies, decked altar and chancel. Music was the feature in most of the churches. It was a joyous festival and everybody appeared dressed in his or her best. Perhaps there were some who found the "Wonders of Creation" in the shape of Easter millinery, not the least interesting decorations. It was a great day for the children and many of them were seen at the services. A happy day, yet all its happiness was but the faintest reflection of the joy on that first great Easter morn.

ST. ANDREW'S CATHEDRAL.

The interior of St. Andrew's Cathedral presented a beautiful effect, and yet the decorative scheme was simple. There was no profusion of flowers and vines, but clusters of Easter lilies, grouped before a background of green, gave the classic interior an impressive effect. White and green throughout was the sentiment of the decorations. Upon the altar were the urns filled with lilies and traceries of green in the background. At the side of the chancel steps was a beautiful cross of white lilies. The ends of the choir pews were draped with greens. Palms at the sides of the church completed a rarely beautiful picture.

The vested choir rendered a fine program of music, the anthem "Lo Ye Despisers" being particularly pleasing. Bishop Restarick preached at the 11 o'clock service.

ST. AUGUSTINE'S CHAPEL.

The pretty little Catholic chapel of St. Augustine at Waikiki revelled in a wealth of flowers for its Easter decorations. Easter lilies and maidenhair ferns, massed especially in the region of the altar and chancel, formed a beautiful picture. Father Valentin preached the sermon. A solo by Hugo Herzer, with violin obligato by Miss Alice Campbell, and organ accompaniment by A. R. Cunha, was a special feature of music in keeping with the spirit of the occasion.

THE CATHOLIC CATHEDRAL.

From early morn until evening the Catholic Cathedral was visited by hundreds upon hundreds of worshippers. The vast edifice was resplendent in its interior decorations, blending with the dazzle of the altar candles. The effect of the flowers and candle lights was further heightened by the semi-military display of the colors of la belle France which adorned the pillars of the gallery. The Bishop presided at the early mass and the forenoon service, he and the assistant clergy wearing beautiful vestments of cloth of gold. The clergy was aided by a numerous galaxy of altar boys. The music, too, was especially fine, the choir being directed by Father Valentin, with Father Ulrich and A. R. Cunha alternating at the organ.

ST. PETER'S CHAPEL.

The little chapel of St. Peter's (Chinese Episcopal) responded to the spirit of the day by presenting a church interior of extreme beauty in its floral decorations. The congregation was composed entirely of Chinese.

THE MORNING SERVICE.

Over a hundred people gathered on the summit of Punchbowl at 7 o'clock yesterday morning for the praise service under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. Mr. John M. Martin led the meeting and representatives from nearly all the churches, English, Hawaiian, Portuguese, Japanese and Chinese, spoke. Dr. Scudder and Rev. E. B. Turner also spoke. A "baby organ" was taken along and assisted greatly in the music which was a feature.

AT CENTRAL UNION.

Central Union church was packed to the doors at the morning service. The platform and choir loft were bowers of lilies and other white flowers with here and there palms. The program was as follows:

Organ Prelude.
Doxology.
Invocation and Lord's Prayer.
Responsive Reading—Ps. 24.
Gloria Patri.
Anthem—"God Hath Appointed a Day," Tours.
Baptism of Children.
Anthem—"Of Loving Will the Token," Schumann.
Violin Obligato: Mrs. A. B. Ingalls.

He played in minor theaters but first became prominent as Asa Trenchard in "Our American Cousin," the play that was on the boards when Lincoln was shot. Of the notable parts he has played since "Rip" Van Winkle stands prominent and this character is as inseparably linked with his name as it is with that of Washington Irving. He was an enthusiastic angler, an excellent painter and the author of his autobiography and other works.

JAP. METHODIST CHURCH DEDICATED

The new Japanese Methodist church on River street was dedicated yesterday afternoon at 2:30 in the presence of a large audience of upward of 400 people, comprising Japanese and foreigners. A varied program was carried out, consisting of selections by the pastor, scripture readings, responsive psalms led by the pastor, Rev. G. Motokawa, assisted by other native workers.

Rev. J. W. Wadman of the Methodist church preached the sermon from Romans 8 and 9, after which the trustees came forward and presented the keys of the church to Rev. Mr. Wadman, who dedicated the building according to Methodist custom. The pastor presented letters of thanks, accompanied with photographs of the three Japanese carpenters who built the church. At the conclusion of the dedicatory service, pastors of different Honolulu churches offered words of congratulation. These included a short address by John G. Woolley, the great prohibition leader.

The building cost $554.44, for which $5015.49 had been collected, leaving a cash balance on hand of $361.05. Other pledges will run this amount up to $2161.05. The church desires to purchase an adjacent piece of land for $2000 and erect a $600 parsonage thereon, making the total amount needed $2600. Therefore about $500 more cash is necessary to carry out this plan.

Dies of Burns.

A little girl, about three years old, died at the Queen's Hospital at 10 o'clock yesterday morning. She was badly burned at her home near the Pali, Saturday morning, but was not brought to town until night.

DR. WILE SENDS ANOTHER GIFT

The Territorial Board of Health has received, by the courtesy of the Hawaiian-American Steamship Line from New York, five cases of books, periodicals and papers, the gift of Dr. W. C. Wile. These cases are to be forwarded to Kalaupapa.

There are some three hundred medical books and over one thousand medical periodicals for the foundation of a medical library for physicians at the Settlement. There is also a large number of books and periodicals for general use.

Dr. Wile has thus shown his continuous interest in the welfare of the wards of the Territory. The band stand contributed by Dr. Wile has reached completion.

There is ample evidence that our leper friends have and will have a greater hold on the sympathy and interest of people in general as the true facts become known, and the desire to help them will intensify.

Dr. Wile is daily making friends for these unfortunates and for Hawaii in general.

The collection in Central Union church yesterday morning for the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions amounted to $500.

At the Central Union Easter services the infant children of Mr. and Mrs. Dr. W. L. Moore and Mr. and Mrs. Geo. B. McClellan were baptized.
